FORMER BOSTON MAN AN EDITOR IN DEVASTATED CITY

Boston, Jan. 25.—The city of New Orleans, the largest center of an area of devastation, is being visited by a man who has been a resident of Boston and one of the most popular figures in the Italian-American community here. He is reported in the "BOSTON AMERICAN" to be the editor of the "New Orleans Times-Picayune."

Two years ago Mr. Vanzetti left this city for Italy, where he was elected to the Italian consulate in Messina. Since then he has been in Italy, France, Spain, Portugal, Greece, Turkey, and the Balkans.

REFUGEES TELL OF TERRIBLE SCENES

ROME, Dec. 30.—Ruin, complete and desolate, looks out on the shorewards from the former sites of Messina and Reggio on both sides of the Sicilian Strait. The most conservative estimates now place the total number of dead at the enormous figure of 125,000, while of this number 75,000 were killed in Messina alone. Later estimates fix the number of dead as high as 200,000.

The earthquake was followed by what the Italians call a "Maremoto," or seaquake, which rolled a mountainous tidal wave in from the sea, completing the havoc wrought by the land upheaval and engulfing vast numbers of residents.

La Tribuna, a conservative newspaper, declares that between 50,000 and 60,000 have been lost, but puts the death list in Messina as low as 12,000. Estimates by other newspapers on the dead in Messina place the number at 75,000.

The towns of Naro, Scilla, Maletto, Belposo and Baguaro and Gazzari in Calabria on the mainland have been demolished, with a heavy total of dead. Everything on the Sicilian coast for miles south of Messina has been engulfed.

Sicilian topography has been entirely changed. Rivers have dried in their courses, hills have been swallowed, canons formed and the entire country devastated.

Instant Death for Thousands.

The stories told by the survivors of the night's crackling sound of the earth crust, as though vast armies were discharging innumerable rapid-fire Maxim guns, the crashing of battleship Maxim guns, the shattering of the sheltering walls fall on them, crushing out their lives as the earth rolled and rocked beneath them.

NIGHT OF HORROR IN DEVASTATED REGION. AETNA'S RUMBLINGS ADD TO TERROR.

Last night was a night of panic in the ruined sections. Fire, murder, robbery, sorrow, despair, confusion reigned. The panic spread with the fall of darkness. The ancient city of Messina was truly a sepolchre.

Buzanna, Palini and Mileto in Calabria have been destroyed in part.

The commander of the torpedo boat Messina, which was lying off the town, declares that the inhabitants were aroused from their slumbers and many were doomed before awaking to full consciousness of the disaster. He states that half the towns along the east coast of Sicily have been effaced.

HOW JOHNSON AND JEFFRIES WOULD LOOK BATTLING FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP--BY TAD.

NOT ONE OF THEM EVER MADE ITTY STRAIGHT. CORBETT CHAMBERLAIN AND SHARKEY. COULD JOHNSON HAVE TAKEN THAT MOUNTAIN OF FLESH?

In Twelve Round Bout at A. A. A. DRISCOLL BEATS MATTY

Looking little the worse for his battle with Don Driscoll, the English fighter, Matty Driscoll, the twelve round bout at A. A. A. was the first of the season with a most appreciative crowd of fans.

It takes a class fight with a champion like Driscoll to perform to draw the fans to the ring and the immense applause he received was the result of his performance in the first round.

The English fighter, Driscoll, was the first to land a blow on the face of his opponent, but he was not able to follow up on his attack.

Driscoll in Check.

As the fight progressed, Driscoll's attack was checked by the English fighter, Driscoll, who was able to land a blow on the face of his opponent.

BILLY MADDEN DECLARES JOHNSON COULD EASILY DEFEAT JIM JEFFRIES

BY TAD.

Could Jack Johnson beat Jeff if the latter were to fight him in New York?

That is a question that is argued over and over again, these days in New York.

There are many who think that Jeff would have beaten the dark fellow with ease, while there are just as many who believe that the better known would have broken him back trying to land on him.

The thing most all agree upon, and that is that Johnson would not knock the big fellow out, no matter how easily he might have outboxed him.

And the reason for this is that Johnson would not be able to land a blow on the face of his opponent.

BOUT TOO SHORT, SAYS BALDWIN

BY MATTY BALDWIN.

He never hurt me at any time during the bout. I only wish it had been a little longer. I felt strong and am confident that I could have won in longer rounds. I know that I had Driscoll in a bad condition twice during the bout, but he was too slippery for me to get close enough to finish him. I know that I can do better, as I had only a short time to train. With a month's training I feel sure of beating Driscoll.

DRISCOLL TOOK THINGS EASY

BY JEM DRISCOLL.

It was an easier win for me than I expected. I beat Baldwin in six rounds and on account of his strength I thought he might be more dangerous in a longer bout, but it did not seem so. I was satisfied to go along easy like and just hold the lead to get the decision and not take any great chances as I have some other matches in view. There was no time during the bout that I felt any effect from Baldwin's punches and couldn't respond.

STORY OF BATTLE ROUND BY ROUND

ROUND ONE.

Baldwin was the first to take the initiative after the bell rang. He landed a right hand on the head of Driscoll, who was able to land a blow on the face of his opponent.

ROUND TWO.

Matty did not seem to be in a bad condition after the first round.

ROUND THREE.

As Baldwin went on to the third round, he was able to land a blow on the face of his opponent.

ROUND FOUR.

Matty went on to the fourth round, where he was able to land a blow on the face of his opponent.

ROUND FIVE.

The fight continued to the fifth round, where Driscoll was able to land a blow on the face of his opponent.

ROUND SIX.

Baldwin was the first to take the initiative after the bell rang. He landed a right hand on the head of Driscoll, who was able to land a blow on the face of his opponent.

ROUND SEVEN.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN'S Column

Well, fellows, you'll have to take this column of writing for the papers some years ago they told me it was a good way to be a power play with an explanation of an answer.

That was a true didn't have to study very hard, for I had learned to apply the same in the ring. When you get into the ring—if you get into the argument out of the ring for that matter—the same thing for a man to do is to get away at your opponent and do the explaining afterward. If you don't, you're a long way from being a power play.

I've got a little piece to speak today about that go over to Australia the other day, but before I do it I want to say that my criticism don't apply to any one man, but to the explanation. I've got a little piece to speak today about that go over to Australia the other day, but before I do it I want to say that my criticism don't apply to any one man, but to the explanation. The explanation I want to make is to you. You can look at it as you like, but I want to make it as clear as I can.

Now, I don't want to say that I'm a big man, but I want to say that I'm a big man. I want to say that I'm a big man, but I want to say that I'm a big man. I want to say that I'm a big man, but I want to say that I'm a big man.

I have seen all the things of the world, and I have seen all the things of the world. I have seen all the things of the world, and I have seen all the things of the world. I have seen all the things of the world, and I have seen all the things of the world.

In closing, I want to say this to the people of the world. I want to say this to the people of the world, and I want to say this to the people of the world. I want to say this to the people of the world, and I want to say this to the people of the world.

Just one word more. I have a lot of things to say to you, and I have a lot of things to say to you. I have a lot of things to say to you, and I have a lot of things to say to you. I have a lot of things to say to you, and I have a lot of things to say to you.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN'S Column

Well, fellows, you'll have to take this column of writing for the papers some years ago they told me it was a good way to be a power play with an explanation of an answer.

That was a true didn't have to study very hard, for I had learned to apply the same in the ring. When you get into the ring—if you get into the argument out of the ring for that matter—the same thing for a man to do is to get away at your opponent and do the explaining afterward. If you don't, you're a long way from being a power play.

TROUBLESOME MAN

"He is at the bottom of most of woman's sorrows, and he is also at the top of all her pleasures"

By DOROTHY DIX

A WOMAN'S man in the West, who has been getting a little bit of a reputation as a trouble maker, is a man who is a trouble maker.

A good woman who is a trouble maker, is a woman who is a trouble maker. A good woman who is a trouble maker, is a woman who is a trouble maker.

Must Chase to Get a Husband

Men and money, and then he takes to the hills and mountains. A woman who is a trouble maker, is a woman who is a trouble maker.

Must Be Pleasing Even to Boys

Men and money, and then he takes to the hills and mountains. A woman who is a trouble maker, is a woman who is a trouble maker.

He is at the bottom of most of woman's sorrows, and he is also at the top of all her pleasures.

He is at the bottom of most of woman's sorrows, and he is also at the top of all her pleasures.

He is at the bottom of most of woman's sorrows, and he is also at the top of all her pleasures.

He is at the bottom of most of woman's sorrows, and he is also at the top of all her pleasures.

He is at the bottom of most of woman's sorrows, and he is also at the top of all her pleasures.

He is at the bottom of most of woman's sorrows, and he is also at the top of all her pleasures.

He is at the bottom of most of woman's sorrows, and he is also at the top of all her pleasures.

He is at the bottom of most of woman's sorrows, and he is also at the top of all her pleasures.

He is at the bottom of most of woman's sorrows, and he is also at the top of all her pleasures.
